

LINEAR PARK E11: PLOT LINES

Call-out for former residents' stories

A project by Matter Architecture & Lucy Harrison

This online PDF map of the Linear Park is an archive of information gathered through our research and workshops.

The left-hand side of this page describes the project and the process behind it. The right-hand side is a clickable map to view the stories relating to the former buildings on Grove Green Rd. Buildings were built and demolished at different periods. The plot lines are mainly based on the 1938 map, though the archive spans a much longer period.

Plot Lines proposal for Linear Park

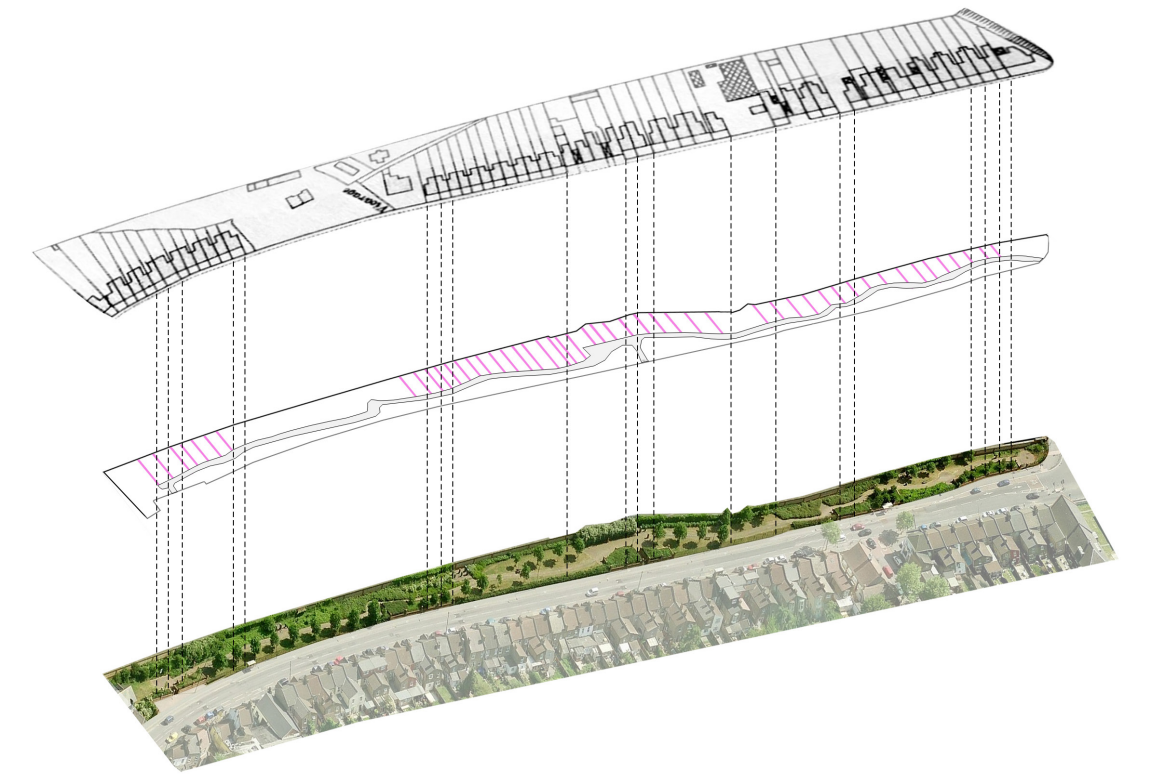

The proposal

Our winning scheme for Linear Park in Leyton is part of Making Places, an initiative funded by Waltham Forest Council to deliver creative projects across the borough. Plot Lines traces the pattern of previous houses along the more than half a kilometer of park in strips of lavender, with historic stories inscribed on plaques amongst meadow grasses and flowers.

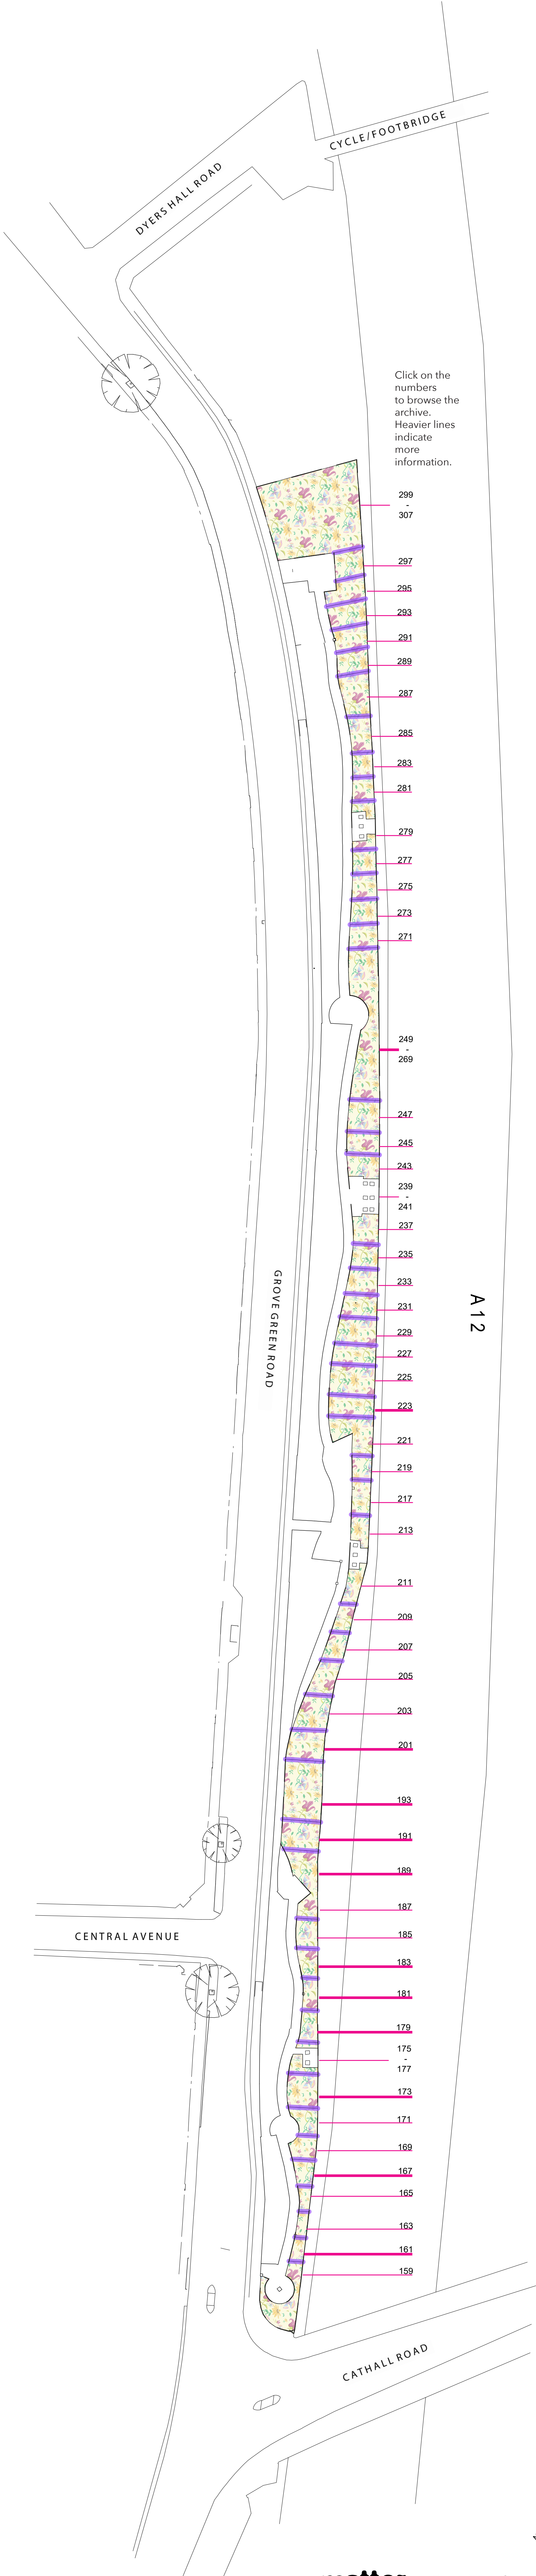

This project is a collaboration between Matter Architecture and the artist Lucy Harrison. The project will build on our knowledge of the borough and experience of working with communities to explore social history, discovering the history of houses and people that were previously on or near the site, from the lives of residents of the Victorian houses that once stood there, to the campaign to prevent the M11 link road. The footprints of some of these buildings will be plotted along the length of the park using herbs and perennial planting, alongside fragments of stories collated from research.

The lavender strips will create different sections which could be utilised in various ways by local residents. Some of these would include herbs which would be an excellent resource for community workshops or reminiscence sessions, sensory or gardening, activities, children's storytelling or educational sessions.

Inputs from residents and local communities will help to shape the programme and we would hope to engage as many of them as possible to create a vibrant place for people to enjoy as part of their daily lives. A 'Friends of Linear Park' group has now been established, meeting once a month and supported by a grant from the Greener City Fund.

The house was built in the 1880s. In 1906 Jack Grimes and his family of 7 children moved in as tenants, with 2 more born after that. He was the grandfather of Peggy Webster.

Jack Grimes died in 1952 and his elderly wife moved to be with her daughters leaving the property vacant. At this point the rent was about 27 shillings a week (£1.35). Mr and Mrs Webster (Peggy had grown up on the road) asked the landlady to see if they could take on the tenancy as they were living above the garage at 193 Grove Green Road. They were offered instead to buy the house which they did for £1075.

In 1952 the house was still gas lit with a coal fired range and some bomb damage. It had 4 bedrooms, a bathroom, kitchen, 3 receptions, a cellar and an outside toilet and a 70ft garden. The Websters had three children, Margaret, Paul and Jane.

In 1968 the house was sold to the council under a compulsory purchase order for £4500 and was used for council housing until its demolition.

The A12 Link Road had been discussed in the 1930s by the borough surveyor but the plans were shelved due to the war.

In 1911, John Herring, a typewriter repairer from Bermondsey, lived here with his wife Amy Rosina, an assistant forewoman from Bow. Following this, from 1913 Elizabeth Webb lived here on her own for some years before the Gridley family, who previously lived at 179 Grove Green Road, moved into the house. It is likely that the house was split into flats, as it was inhabited by several different couples at the same time during the 20s and 30s, including Edward and Emily Etly, Harry and Emily Tibbett, George and Lily Harrison, and Arthur and Teresa Bodkin, along with the Gridleys.

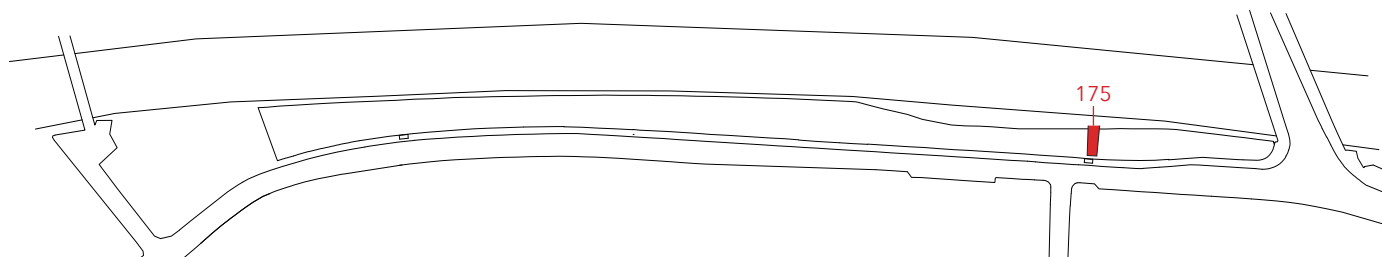

Arthur Gridley was born in 1862 and his wife Elizabeth in 1857, and as Elizabeth does not appear on the records in 1936, it seems likely that she had died in her late 70s. Edwin appeared for the last time in 1937 when he would have been 75.

In 1912 the maps show large greenhouses at 193 Grove Green Road and open space rather than any buildings - the garage was built in the 1920s.

GD Ponsford Car Sales and petrol station was designed by Richard Grimes, a prominent local builder, Mrs Ponsford's cousin. It was built in 1928 and was the only petrol station in the area apart from one in Hackney which served petrol on the route out of London.

Mr and Mrs Ponsford moved into the accommodation above the showroom and offices in 1928 with their two children, there were 3 bedrooms, a bathroom, kitchen, living room, reception room and roof garden. Behind the property were 12 lockup garages which were rented at half a crown a week to local car owners.

In 1930 Peggy Webster (nee Ponsford, later at 167) was born at this address.

During the second world war the garage remained open for business. The lock up garages were rebuilt as a workshop for essential engineering for war work.

Mr Ponsford died in 1959 and soon after the business was sold to Total Petrol Co. Mrs Ponsford moved into 167 with her daughter Peggy.

In the late 19th century and early 20th century, Charles and Margaret Culley, who were florists lived in 201 Grove Green Road. Later on the Bourne family lived here, and Peggy Webster remembers them. Arthur William Bourne (aka Frank Arthur Bourne) was the Mayor of Leyton in 1949-50. Arthur Bourne was Bert's father's best man. Peggy used to drive him as he couldn't drive - before he was mayor.

In 1933, the property was occupied by William Bourne and his family, who had moved from further along the road. In 1901, William and his wife Ellen Elizabeth and their 10 month old son Arthur were living at 221. He was the manager of a grocer's shop. In 1911, William Bourne was living at 32 the Parade, Grove Green Road, with his wife Ellen Elizabeth and children Arthur, Frank, Leonard and Nellie. William was still a grocer. William and Ellen's eldest son Arthur was a clerk but aged 18 he joined the Rifle Brigade. Later in life Arthur William became Mayor of Leyton (1949-50). William died in 1957. Frank Bourne and Edith lived in the property until 1960. From 1961, 201 ceases to be recorded on the electoral register. - Val Spooner
